American Health Lawyers Association (AHLA)...Your Essential Health Law Resource

Join a community of more than 13,000 health lawyers, compliance and privacy officers, finance officers, health care consultants, regulatory professionals, physicians, nurses, CEOs, public health officials, and others interested in health care legal and regulatory issues. AHLA also welcomes and includes students, academicians, paralegals, government attorneys, and solo practitioners.

AHLA's vision—to lead health law to excellence—is one we are firmly committed to, and that means offering benefits based on what members tell us is most valuable to them. Take a moment to review this guide and keep it handy for quick reference. It contains an overview about your many membership benefits.

AHLA's office is open weekdays, from 9 AM to 5 PM Eastern. To reach the Member Satisfaction Center, call (202) 833-1100, prompt #2 or send an email to mhc@healthlawyers.org.

Get Involved

We encourage you to make the most of your AHLA membership by becoming active. When new members join AHLA, they receive a free Practice Group. If you haven't already done so, enroll in the Practice Group of your choice. Share your expertise and gain visibility by participating in AHLA's Communities. Be a part of the Association's Mentoring Program. Draw upon resources like the Membership Directory and the online Job Bank. Participate in webinars and programs.

Your involvement will not only make you a better professional, it will make AHLA a better organization.

Reading

More than ever, we rely on quick and easy access to relevant information for successful practice management. AHLA understands this particular need and offers you many key information sources and services that will help you be effective counsel for your clients.

AHLA Bookstore—AHLA has a library of publications authored by health lawyers and health care professionals who are experts in their field. www.healthlawyers.org/bookstore.

AHLA Connections—Sent monthly, AHLA's membership magazine includes feature articles and analyses, job openings, reports on the professional activities of members, and updates on other Association events. (Student and paralegal members, as well as members living outside the U.S. receive just the digital version of the magazine.) www.healthlawyers.org/connections.

Health Law Archive—A vast database of health law knowledge, including more than 30,000 documents and audio files from AHLA. New content is regularly added to the Archive. New members receive a complimentary one-year subscription to the Archive.

Health & Life Sciences Law Daily—A customized email digest service, the Daily provides summaries of current health law news from the major media outlets in the country.

AHLA's Newsstand—Weekly newsletter delivering tailored newsfeeds on State Health Law Issues. This newsletter is a collaborative initiative between AHLA and Lexology, a powerful newsfeed service that gives us access to topic-specific content developed by law firms in the US and worldwide.

AHLA Weekly—A comprehensive, electronic alert service that keeps you ahead of the curve with in-depth reporting on the latest developments affecting health law. Read articles and analyses of important case law, federal and state legislative and regulatory developments, and coverage of hot topics.

Journal of Health & Life Sciences Law—Published digitally three times a year for all members, the Journal contains in-depth, professionally reviewed articles that are practical and relevant. Each issue is printable, and includes interactive web links, tables of contents, and cross references. It can be accessed with your mobile device. IP Access is available for firms or other libraries that need to disseminate these materials to a wider audience. For information about this option, contact Ana Greene at agreene@healthlawyers.org.

Member Update Emails—Advising you of late-breaking webinars, upcoming programs, just-released publications, the latest alerts from the Association’s Practice Groups, and other AHLA news and information.

Website—Everything listed in this Guide, and more, can be found on our website at www.healthlawyers.org. Members enrolled in Practice Groups can also access special sites for their particular Practice Group.

Use AHLA’s website to:

- » Enroll in Practice Groups;
- » Register for educational programs and webinars;
- » Purchase publications and other resources from the online bookstore;
- » Learn more about the Association’s Public Interest activities; and
- » Use the AHLA Job Bank.

AHLA Communities

AHLA members can connect with colleagues who have similar work settings, professional categories, or interest areas in the AHLA Communities. With more than 20 topical discussion lists and professional forums (including our new Women’s Network), the Communities are a great way for you to connect with colleagues and get answers to your questions. Using your AHLA website login, manage privacy settings, and select real time or daily digest subscription options. Members are also able to access archives of all discussions and view useful documents in the AHLA Communities libraries. To learn more about the Communities, go to <http://communities.healthlawyers.org>.

Learning

Choose Your Learning Style

AHLA's educational programs are the gold standard in the legal community. As the premier provider of continuing education to the profession, AHLA leads health law to excellence through many venues, from its highly regarded in-person programs held across the country to its webinars that cover breaking regulatory issues and hot topics.

In-Person Continuing Education

- » Antitrust in Health Care
- » Arbitration and Mediation Training
- » Fraud and Compliance Forum
- » Fundamentals of Health Law
- » Health Care Transactions
- » Health Information and Technology
- » Institute for Health Plan Counsel
- » Institute on Medicare and Medicaid Payment Issues
- » Legal Issues Affecting Academic Medical Centers and Other Teaching Institutions
- » Long Term Care and the Law
- » Physicians and Hospitals Law Institute
- » Tax Issues for Health Care Organizations
- » Women's Leadership Institute

In-House Counsel Program and Annual Meeting

One of the best opportunities to network with colleagues and gain valuable skills is through attendance at AHLA's In-House Counsel Program and Annual Meeting every summer. Mark your calendars now for upcoming meetings:

- » June 2016 in Denver, CO
- » June 2017 in San Francisco, CA
- » June 2018 in Chicago, IL
- » June 2019 in Boston, MA
- » June 2020 in San Diego, CA

Continuing Legal Education

AHLA is an approved sponsor for continuing legal education and continuing professional education credits in most states. AHLA also applies for other types of professional education credits. Most programs include a workshop on legal ethics to help attendees fulfill their state requirements. Sessions are tailored as introductory, intermediate, or advanced to an attendee's level of expertise. Credits for certification are calculated based on a 60- or 50-minute hour. At the program, members complete and return a Continuing Education Credit Request form and are able to access their program certificates online. For information on how many credits a specific program offers, please check the individual program website.

ePrograms

AHLA collaborates with the West LegalEdcenter to bring you the content from our in-person programs, online and on demand so you can earn CLEs, all from the comfort of your home or office and on your own time. Each session contains audio and written materials, including PowerPoints, papers, and attachments. You are able to purchase each session separately and, depending on your state rules, are able to earn a CLE credit or more on each session purchased. Each session comes with a complete description of the materials covered in the discussion. Special pricing is available for AHLA members. Once purchased, you have instantaneous access to the session, and continued access for 180 days from date of purchase.

You are able to bookmark the audio and papers and take electronic notes while listening to the session.

Once you've completed the session, you are presented with your electronic CLE certificate. To obtain more information about earning online CLEs, please explore these products in depth at <http://westlegaledcenter.com>.

Distance Learning

AHLA's distance learning events allow participants the flexibility to stay abreast of regulatory developments in the health law field, and in most cases earn continuing legal education credits, without having to leave the comfort of your office, home, or any other location from which it's most convenient to participate. Distance learning events are offered as webinars, roundtable discussions, Public Interest webinars, brown bags, and educational calls.

Participants can select either live presentations via web browsers and ask questions in real time, or view webinar recordings "on demand" at a later time. On-demand distance-learning events are approved for continuing legal education (CLE) in eligible states unless otherwise indicated. Offerings designated as "on-demand" differ from those designated as "recording" in that they are CLE-eligible. For a list of all distance learning opportunities and on demand sessions, go to <https://distancelearning.healthlawyers.org>.

Engaging

A primary benefit of AHLA membership is the opportunity to grow as a professional through several key resources and opportunities.

Practice Groups

AHLA offers multiple Practice Groups (PGs); each PG is composed of volunteer members who share a similar work setting or interest in specific areas of health law. Members receive complimentary enrollment in a PG of their choice when they join. There is a nominal fee to enroll in each additional PG. The enrollment period is matched to the member's membership cycle (e.g., if an individual has nine months of membership in AHLA remaining, any PG that he/she enrolls in will also lapse in nine months so that the member can renew his/her membership and PGs at the same time in the following year and every year thereafter). Enroll online or call (202) 833-1100, prompt #2. Those enrolled receive electronic newsletters, substantial savings when registering for webinars and luncheon discussions, member briefings on important issues, email alerts, and special Practice Group members-only areas on our website. Learn more at www.healthlawyers.org/pgs.

- » Physician Organizations
- » Post-Acute and Long Term Services
- » Regulation, Accreditation, and Payment
- » Tax and Finance

Enroll online or call the Member Satisfaction Center at (202) 833-1100, prompt #2.

Students, government members, and academic members automatically receive access to all PGs when they join AHLA.

Affinity Groups

Several Practice Groups also have special Affinity Groups to facilitate networking opportunities with other members who share similar professional interests. An Affinity Group provides targeted benefits and education to a sub-specialty of a particular Practice Group. To find out more, go to www.healthlawyers.org/pgs.

Young Professionals

AHLA's young professionals have many opportunities to become active in the Association, network with leaders and colleagues, and develop leadership skills. Members are encouraged to subscribe to the Young Professionals Community. To find out more, go to www.healthlawyers.org/yp.

Women's Network

The Women's Leadership Council (WLC) sponsors networking and professional development opportunities for women interested in enhancing their skills, meeting new colleagues and AHLA leaders, and strengthening their ties to and involvement in the Association. Learn more about the WLC and Women's Network in the AHLA Communities section at <http://communities.healthlawyers.org/>.

AHLA Mentoring Program

AHLA is committed to supporting health lawyers—whether individuals just graduating from law school, those moving to or from an in-house counsel position or government work setting, or more experienced lawyers transitioning to health law as a new specialty. Our Mentoring Program pairs interested members with seasoned health lawyers, and builds on the Association's commitment to create a collegial community and meet members' needs for networking and relationship building. Sign up to become a mentor advisor to provide guidance to others, or sign up as a mentee learner to develop your professional skills, leadership, and professional competencies. The Mentoring Program also provides opportunities for career planning and development and guidance on specific fields of interest within health care law. www.healthlawyers.org/mentoring.

Your Essential

Health Law Resource

Share Your Expertise

AHLA provides several ways for you to share your expertise with your colleagues and others. Submit a Call for Speakers for one of our many in-person programs, webinars, roundtable discussions, or brown bag discussions. Submit a proposal for a Practice Group newsletter or AHLA Connections article, a Public Information series resource, or a publication through our Call for Writers. Respond to AHLA's Call for Volunteers to become a volunteer leader with a Practice Group or Affinity Group. To volunteer, go to www.healthlawyers.org/volunteer.

Law School Alliances

Health law student organizations are an essential partner in AHLA's efforts to reach the future leaders of the health law profession. Student organizations can receive regular information from AHLA, be notified about upcoming educational and networking opportunities, and are able to access key health law resources. There is also a special area of the website that contains resources for health law professors and adjunct faculty. www.healthlawyers.org/schoolalliances.

Dispute Resolution Service

The Dispute Resolution Service provides rules of procedure for resolution of disputes and provides independent health care professionals to resolve them. AHLA's neutrals are ready to help resolve disputes in medical staff/governing board issues, physician credentialing matters, managed care issues, joint venture agreements, physician contracts, and more. For sample contractual language, to request a list of neutrals, or to become a neutral, go to www.healthlawyers.org/drs.

Giving

Serving as a Public Resource

A key component of AHLA's mission is its desire to serve as a public resource on selected health care legal issues through publications that share the expertise of AHLA members with the public. AHLA's free Public Interest resources are available online at www.healthlawyers.org/publicinterest.

Support Public Interest Activities

Public Interest activities are financed by a combination of operating revenues and donations from individual members, their firms, and health care organizations and businesses. Members may make a tax-deductible contribution to help AHLA meet its annual fundraising goals for these critical activities in support of the Association's mission. www.healthlawyers.org/publicinterest.
