AHLA ANNOUNCES HEALTH LAW WEEK
APRIL 27-MAY 1, 2020

WASHINGTON, DC (JANUARY 23, 2020)—The American Health Lawyers Association (AHLA) is marking Health Law Week from April 27-May 1, 2020, to celebrate the contributions of the health law profession on the broader health care industry.

With the landscape continuing to shift around delivery of care in the United States health care system, the health law professional is at the center, providing analysis, assessing risk, ensuring compliance, and making recommendations to their organizations and clients to protect them from liability. They are the stabilizing force within the industry and AHLA wants to celebrate and champion these professionals!

“Health Law Week is about increasing awareness of this integrated and integral profession within the health care industry,” comments Robert R. Niccolini, President of AHLA and Shareholder at Ogletree Deakins in Washington, DC. “We plan to highlight programs that create new opportunities for entry into the profession, showcase organizations dedicated to employing these professionals, and elevate this community’s contributions to the health care industry.”

“This is a celebration of the individual and magnification of the collective community,” adds David S. Cade, Executive Vice President/Chief Executive Officer of AHLA. “With celebrations across the country, including receptions in Los Angeles, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and Washington, DC, we are excited to celebrate our membership and champion the entire profession.”
